

The UK government has announced the details of the help to self-employed people facing financial difficulties who will be able to have 80% of their monthly wages covered by the government. This will be calculated using average monthly profits over last three financial years. Capped at £2,500 per month and will initially last three months.

The not such good news is that it looks like it will take until June to 'access' the scheme. We'll add more detail as we have them.
